

HARNESSING PATENT OFFICE LITIGATION

VOLUME VIII

A Look at Twenty Seven Months of Inter Partes
Review Proceedings Before the United States Patent and Trademark Office

While the initial Final Written Decisions were decided in favor of Petitioners (a 96.4% cancellation rate as of March 16, 2014), more recent decisions have increasingly sided with Patent Owners, bringing down the total number of canceled claims to 80.9%. Critics of IPR proceedings try to argue the various ways in which the proceedings are skewed toward Petitioners. It is becoming increasingly clear, however, that the Inter Partes Review process has added an efficient and cost-effective avenue to test the patentability of patent claims outside expensive, District Court litigation.

<sup>1</sup> Over time, Petitioners have come to recognize that their Petitions must be supported by hard evidence in the form of expert testimony.

<sup>2</sup> As Patent Owners have come to realize that substantive attacks on a Petition are less successful without expert testimony, they have waived the Preliminary Patent Owner Response in increasing numbers.

<sup>3</sup> As the PTAB's workload has steadily increased, the time to a Decision to Initiate has gradually climbed, as well. While the Board has statutorily been provided with three months to make that decision, it is taking about three weeks less than the full statutory allotment to come to a Decision to Initiate.

<sup>5</sup> A total of one motion to amend has been granted through December 16, 2014.

Litigation and other Administrative Proceedings Involving the Patent-At-Issue

Increasingly, and to get around the PTAB's onerous Motion to Amend requirements, Patent Owners are filing concurrent reissue or reexamination proceedings to offer a more robust substitute claim set.
