

HARNESSING PATENT OFFICE LITIGATION

VOLUME XI

A Look at Thirty Six Months of Inter Partes Review
Proceedings Before the United States Patent and Trademark Office

9|16|2012 to 9|16|2015

While the initial Final Written Decisions were decidedly in favor of Petitioners (a 96.4% cancellation rate as of March 16, 2014), more recent decisions have increasingly sided with Patent Owners, bringing down the total number of canceled claims to 84.3%. Critics of IPR proceedings try to argue the various ways in which the proceedings are skewed toward Petitioners. It is becoming increasingly clear, however, that the Inter Partes Review process has added an efficient and cost-effective avenue to test the patentability of patent claims outside expensive, District Court litigation.

¹ Over time, Petitioners have come to recognize that their Petitions must be supported by hard evidence in the form of expert testimony.

² As Patent Owners have come to realize that substantive attacks on a Petition are less successful without expert testimony, they have waived the Preliminary Patent Owner Response in increasing numbers.

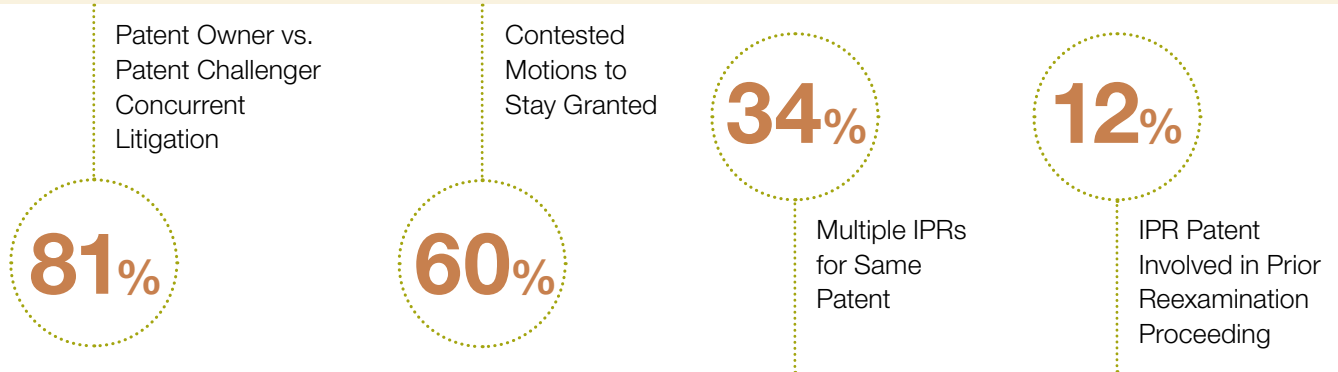

³ As the PTAB's workload has steadily increased, the time to a Decision to Initiate has gradually climbed, as well. While the Board has statutorily been provided with three months to make that decision, it is taking about two weeks less than the full statutory allotment to come to a Decision to Initiate.

⁴ Percent of claims that were confirmed as patentable in a Decision to Institute or Final Written Decision.

⁵ A total of six motions to amend have been granted through September 16, 2015.

Litigation and other Administrative Proceedings Involving the Patent-At-Issue

Increasingly, and to get around the PTAB's onerous Motion to Amend requirements, Patent Owners are filing concurrent reissue or reexamination proceedings to offer a more robust substitute claim set.
